GAME CREEK RESTAURANT HISTORY

Nestled at 10,300 feet, Game Creek Restaurant was established in 1996. Originally designed as the Game Creek Club, a private dining club, Game Creek Restaurant opened to the public for dinner service two years later. The Club and Restaurant are the crowning vision of Pete Seibert, one of the founders of Vail Mountain. Following his time spent in Europe with the 10th Mountain Division, Pete returned to Vail Mountain and worked with the co-founders to develop the ski area. As a part of his vision for the resort, Pete wanted to establish a restaurant that emulated the European chalets found at ski areas in the Alps. Game Creek Restaurant is still known as Game Creek Club in the winter months, when the restaurant is open for lunch exclusively for club members. We are happy to continue offering dinner to the public throughout the year.

MEET OUR CHEFS

Executive Chef K David Clawson began his culinary career close to his hometown of McLean, Virginia. After discovering his passion for creative French cuisine, he moved to New York City and worked at La Caravelle Restaurant and then studied under Chef Daniel Boulud at Plaza Athénée. The Ritz Carlton Hotel Company recruited David where he worked at several properties and was part of the Culinary opening team for many new hotels. Chef Clawson accepted his first Executive Chef position with the Hotel Nikko Atlanta, a hotel which was consistently recognized as one of the top one hundred hotels worldwide. Chef Clawson's culinary talents brought him to San Francisco where he reopened the Park Hyatt as Hotel Le Meridien in San Francisco's financial district. Chef Clawson joined Vail Resorts seven years ago as the Executive Chef of the Lodge at Vail, and has been with Game Creek Restaurant since November 2008.

Executive Sous Chef Jason Culbertson has worked alongside Chef Clawson for the last eight years. Jason brings creative influences and culinary innovation to Game Creek's cuisine.
